Flour has dropped $2 a barrel, and is now selling on the local market at $13.50.

If we are really a strong nation, the time has come to show some of our strength in dealing with spies.

Secretary McAdoo will speak in Louisville June 11, the day the Kentucky Press Association meets there.

Berlin, Wis., wants to change its name. The Indian name "Mascoutin" is favored by many of the citizens.

National chairmen of both parties have agreed to work both organizations in getting out the registration Tuesday.

A dozen people, four or five of them women, have been arrested at Kansas City for plotting to prevent military registration.

Italy's great poet was in the battle of San Giovanni Thursday, and showed that the sword sometimes is mightier than the pen.

Evansville bakers have set June 11 as the day to stop making a 5-cent loaf, just about the time the government will be ready to step in and stop them from selling a 5-cent loaf for 10 cents.

The senate finance committee has decided to raise in the war tax bill $80,000,000 by a consumption tax of two cents a pound on coffee, five on tea, half a cent on sugar and three cents on cocoa.

The Secretary of Commerce is to become the official fisher of the United States. He can find plenty of conscripts between the ages of 31 and 71 in Hopkinsville, with more or less training for their official duties and a general knowledge of the best bait to use.

ASHAMED OF HIS GOVERNMENT

Greek Secretary at Washington Hands in His Resignation.

Washington, June 1.—S. X. Constantinidi, First Secretary of the Greek legation here, presented his papers of resignation to the State Department and announced his allegiance to the forces of Venizelos. His action, because of his long connection with the Greek Foreign Office, gave the diplomatic corps a shock.

Mr. Constantinidi declared he had been discontented with being connected with King Constantine's Government ever since the United States declared war.

"As I see it," he said, "it is the duty of every humane and honest man to arraign himself on the side of America and the Entente. The whole terrible situation has narrowed down to a simple question of humanity and civilization against German barbarity and bestiality of a type almost beyond human belief. When a nation of people calling themselves civilized human beings begin to sink hospital ships, murder women and children and use their dead for manure it is time for all decent men to turn their faces away."

Secret Wireless Found.

Seattle, Wash., June 1.—A timber cruiser residing in Seattle has reported to United States authorities here that a secret wireless plant is in operation on Elk Creek in the Olympic Forest Reserve, about twenty-four miles from the Pacific ocean. The cruiser reported that materials for the wireless plant were taken into the Queen's country in the summer of 1915. Three Germans bore the stuff on their backs over trails that horses could not have traveled, the cruiser said. About 800 pounds of material were carried in.

BIG MEETING AT THE PARK

Thursday Night to Boost the Sale of the Liberty Bonds.

STIRRING SPEECHES MADE

Large Number Have Already Subscribed For Bonds.

Hopkinsville and Christian county reached its highest point Thursday night at the mass meeting at Virginia Park. More than 500 people were present despite the many other attractions.

Messrs F. F. Walters, Jno. Stites, Alvan Clark, Jno. C. Duffy, Jas. A. McKenzie, G. L. Campbell and C. R. Clark made stirring speeches. Mr. Ira L. Smith presided over the ceremonies. The talks were earnest appeals to every man to do his part to help win the war and spoken were from the heart.

The sentiment of the people was expressed when one of the speakers said, "a candidate who has never given a son to the army or does not wear a Liberty Bond button need not apply for my vote."

The farmer especially should buy bonds. He is exempt from military service, his sons are exempt and he gets top prices for his crops. The least he can do for his country is to buy a bond.

The people of Christian county might take some pointers from a community of German peasants in Pennsylvania. In this community is a German bank. This bank took its whole pro rata of Liberty Bonds in a single day. The people of the community say they came to America to escape Prussian militarism and have given and will give again of their money and are willing to die if necessary to preserve the honor of the United States.

FRANK RIVES IN THE RACE

Candidate For the Democratic Nomination For Senator.

FRANK RIVES.

Frank Rives, who was a member of the State Senate from this district 12 years ago, is today announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator. During his former term he was active as a prohibition leader and helped to frame the county anti bill, which has since been amended.

This is Christian county's time to furnish the Democratic candidate, according to a long standing custom, the two counties taking turn about, and Mr. Rives is the third entry. The others are W. R. Howell, former commonwealth's attorney in this judicial district, and H. A. Robinson, a prominent young citizen of this place.

VILLISTAS TAKE BORDER TOWN

U. S. Troops Patrol Presidio While Across River Rebel Cavalrymen Operating.

PANCHO NOT IN ATTACK

Rebels Loot Homes After Two Hours Battle Gives Them Victory.

Presidio, Texas, May 30.—Francis Covilla holds a border post opposite an American town and again United States troops are patrolling the border while Villa cavalrymen are operating on the southern bank of the Rio Grande.

At 5 o'clock Wednesday morning approximately 200 Villa fellows dashed into the little border town of Ojinaga, opposite here shouting "Viva Villa," and shooting right and left as they rode. Only a handful of Mexican government forces occupied the town. Gen. G. Figuero, Gen. Garcia and Col. Riojas having gone out Sunday night to engage the Villa command which was encamped at La Muela pass, thirty-five miles south of the border. These forces are expected to return tonight in an effort to drive the Villa troops from the town. Fifty of the government force of seventy-five men in Ojinaga succeeded in escaping across the river to Presidio. Women and children followed behind them, carrying babies and bundles. Of the 25 government soldiers remaining 16 were killed during the fighting, six were taken prisoners and three wounded.

REBELS LOOT HOMES.

The battle lasted two hours, after which the shops and homes of the Ojinaga residents were looted.

Whether Villa was with his troops has not been confirmed. No one was permitted to cross to the Mexican side tonight. Mexicans coming to the American side say they heard reports of Villa's presence in the town but none of the refugees had seen him.

Chico Cano led the Villa forces into the plaza. Martin Lopez, Jose Ynez Salazar and Carlos Montoya were reported to have been with him in the attack.

Reports of a fight yesterday between 600 rebels and government troops under Generals Garcia and Figuero, fifteen miles southeast of La Muela pass and fifty miles below the border, were brought here today by refugee Mexicans. They said the government forces suffered heavy losses and were forced to retire.

ATTACKING FOE ANNIHILATED

Austrians Attempt to Retake San Giovanni From the Brave Italians.

GERMANS RAID TRENCHES

In Champagne Foe is Hurlled From Vantage Ground Previously Gained.

The Austrians, in their attempts to recapture San Giovanni, on the southern portion of the Carso plateau, came into a terrible hand to hand fight with the Italians. Among the Italians was Gabriel D'Annunzio, the poet and playwright, whose word and example animated the soldiers in the heroic struggle which resulted in the annihilation of the enemy.

A state of virtual inaction prevails on all the war fronts. In only one theater has there been any fighting worthy of note. This was in the Champagne region of France, where the French, counter-attacking heavily against positions northeast of Mount Haut, where Wednesday night the Germans in a violent offensive had captured trench elements, drove out the Teutons Thursday and re-established their former front in its entirety.

To the west, in the region lying between Rheims and Soissons, there has been a continuation of the spirited artillery duels on various sectors.

The intensive fighting along the southern portion of the Austro-Italian front has apparently entirely ceased for the moment, the Italians probably being engaged in consolidating positions won and in bringing up their guns for further operations in their campaign against Trieste. Along the Isonzo line only artillery duels have been in progress, owing to bad weather conditions.

Italians Take Albanian Villages

There has been a renewal of activity by the Italians in Albania and several villages in the southern part of this theater have been taken and held successfully against counter attacks of the Teutonic allies. Eastward on the entire Macedonia front artillery duels are in progress.

An indication of the heavy fighting during the month of April is given in an official British statement of casualties during this period, showing that 112,233 British soldiers were killed, wounded or made prisoners. Included in the aggregate are 5,902 officers.

FOOD HOARDING MAY BE FELONY

Adopts Amendment Providing Prison Sentence for Storage to Inflate Prices.

BLOW TO FOOD GAMBLING

Secretary of Commerce to Be Authorized to Catch and Market Fish.

Washington, June 1.—Hoarding, storage or destruction of food, fuel or other necessities of life to limit supply to affect prices would be a felony under an amendment to the government's first food bill adopted in the senate today without a record vote.

Several senators protested that the provision was too drastic and would prevent legitimate storing to equalize markets but all efforts to modify it failed. When Senator Fall proposed that the federal trade commission be empowered to decide whether storing is reasonable, Senator Poindexter, author of the amendment, insisted that any such change would weaken the effectiveness of the measure as a weapon against speculation.

Violation of the section would be punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than six months nor more than three years. Holding by farmers or others of the products of land cultivated by them is exempted.

Consideration of the administration bill, which provides for a food supply and stimulation of production, neared the final stage today but the introduction of a number of amendments shortly before adjournment probably will prevent a final vote before Saturday.

An amendment which would authorize the secretary of commerce to take steps to promote more general use of fish to relieve the food stringency, was offered by Fletcher. It would permit the secretary to catch and market fish.

Second District Council Perfects Organization.

ADDRESSES DELIVERED

Mass Meetings Monday Night In all Precincts.

OFFICERS OF COUNCIL.
Judge W. T. Fowler, president. of Hopkinsville.
F. J. Pentecost, secretary.
F. M. Hutchison, assistant secretary.

The national council of defense of the Second Congressional district of Kentucky met in Henderson Thursday and perfected a permanent organization. Every county in the district, with the exception of McLean, was represented.

The members present were: Christian—Judge W. T. Fowler, R. E. Cooper, S. L. Cowherd.

Hopkins—Judge J. Fletcher Dempsey.
Webster—Thos. M. Hankins.
Union—Jack Young.
Hancock—Sam Gregory.
Davies—John Dean, Wm. Bridenbach.

Henderson—A. G. Crutchfield, Rev. Robert N. Ward, F. J. Pentecost.

FACING GRAVE CRISIS.

The keynote of every speaker was that the American people have not realized the seriousness of the situation now confronting the United States. The production of an increased acreage of food crops, conservation of the foods, cheaper fuel, purchasing of liberty bonds and the duty of men between the ages of 21 and 31 to register next Tuesday, June 5, were the points brought out.

The public meeting was held at the city council chamber at 1:30 o'clock. Several citizens of this and other counties attended the session.

HUMAN GREED.

Judge J. Fletcher Dempsey of Hopkins county, made the bold statement that "nothing but human greed" was responsible for the inflated prices of coal. He said he hailed from the largest coal producing county in Western Kentucky and knew something about the coal industry.

BIG ADVANCES.

"Coal operators are solely responsible for the almost prohibitive prices of coal," said Judge Dempsey. "They have advanced their miners from 10 to 20 per cent. in wages lately, but at the same time advanced coal prices from 100 to 200 per cent."

SHORT ADDRESSES.

Short addresses were delivered by Judge Fowler, Rev. Ward, Sam Gregory, G. T. Wyatt, S. L. Cowherd and Jack Young. All pledged themselves to get busy in their respective counties and hold precinct mass meetings next Monday night for the purpose of advising the people regarding registration and other matters under consideration.

COOPER SPEAKS.

R. E. Cooper, of Hopkinsville, stated the purpose of the meeting by declaring that the people of the United States must grow more food crops this year and conserve it better than ever before. He said every liberty-loving citizen should purchase a "Liberty Bond" and that if a man were too old to follow the flag he could be just as good a patriot by purchasing bonds, as the younger man who donned a khaki uniform. He said that next Tuesday, June 5, should be made a holiday in the United States when men between the ages of 21 and 31 are required to register. He pointed out the mistakes of England and said America would profit by those mistakes.

Dr. Martin D. Hardin, a son of Gen. P. Wat Hardin, is a Chautauqua lecturer this year and his peace lecture concerning the titanic struggle in Europe was declared by William J. Bryan to be "the strongest speech delivered in America on the European situation."

M. Tchernoff, the Russian Socialist Minister of Agriculture, addressing a congress of delegates from the front said: "Peace must be concluded in which there are no victors and no vanquished. There is no question however of a separate peace. Appeals have been published for an immediate attack, but the army should utilize the present lull to organize itself. Then it will need no prompting; it will know itself what to do."

The correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt on the Western front reports that Emperor William, during his recent visit to the Arras line, addressed delegations from the troops fighting on the Alsne. He thanked them with evident emotion for their heroism in meeting French attacks, and said in part: "The decision lies near at hand. You will turn it in our favor as you have on every previous occasion, because you realize what you are fighting for—the future of your children and grandchildren, the future of the beloved fatherland of us all."

Administration influence has been brought to bear for amending the war tax bill to increase postage rates of newspapers, magazines and other publications enjoying the cent a pound rate. Postmaster General Burleson conferred with Chairman Simmons, of the Senate Finance Committee, revising the bill, and urged the committee to adopt the amendment of Senator Hardwick, of Georgia, to increase second-class postage rates. Mr. Hardwick's plan would add $20,000,000 this year and more in subsequent years to second-class rates by a tax ranging from 3 to 8 cents a pound upon the advertising proportion of publications, retaining the rate only on news space.

DISPOSING OF THE CROP

By JOAN RUGBY.

Howard threw his fountain pen furiously on the desk as a timid tapping came on the door.

"Blame that squint-eyed Oriental! What do you want?" he cried.

"Please, Mr. Landreth, the telephone rings."

Howard jerked open the door. Well might the little Japanese tremble for his master's scowl was terrible to behold. Gone was the elusive idea he had just managed to grasp after days of futile effort. His mind was just beginning to yield to the quiet soothing peace of the country after days of irritation and unrest following a quarrel with Sylvia, and now his chance of writing for the day was gone.

He strode to the phone and jerked down the receiver. "Hello!" he snarled.

A feminine voice came over the wire. "Have you any potatoes to sell?"

"No," roared Howard.

"Oh!" came the voice. "Well, have you any corn or onions?"

"No!" answered the master of Yamasaki. "I have no corn or onions!"

"Well, have you anything at all to sell? Tomatoes or cabbage or apples or eggs or anything?"

"Nothing, madam, but ideas, but lately the crop has been small."

He hung up and turned away. "What are you fussing about, Yamasaki? We're not running a market garden just because we're in the country."

"Will master come and see? There is so much potatoes! Men dig all day yesterday. Outside there is like a house of potatoes. And the corn!

Enough for all America. And cabbage, so!" Spreading his arms high and wide. "And onions, so! And beets and turnips! Everything there is so much! And the eggs! The chickens make so many I fill the basket every night. One day, two days, a week, two weeks!

Some baskets I throw over the hill when they get old. Mister eat only one. I bake cake. Throw out. I make everything. Throw out. Yamasaki tell mister many days before and mister say only, 'Shut up!'"

Howard laughed. "All right, Yamasaki! I guess you did say something about it and I told you not to bother me. Well, if the lady calls up again or if you can find out who she is, give her all she wants for nothing."

Howard put on his hat and went out. It was a beautiful day in early autumn and the country was exquisite with bronzes and reds. Although he had taken the same walk many times before he had never been able to see anything but Sylvia. After all, perhaps she was right to go away, if some of those English chaps in Bermuda don't carry her off and marry her before she gets back.

He felt better after his walk in the cool bracing air and called the Jap. "Yamasaki, have you found out who the neighbor is who wants the onions?"

"Yes, I think, Mr. Landreth. A man drive by and stop. He say there is a big house over there with many children and they eat, eat, eat everything."

"Oh, I see! An orphan asylum or children's home. Well, get those men that were here yesterday and haul over all the stuff you can find. After this I'm going to write, and if the telephone rings smash it. Do anything, but don't you call me."

The days sped on and Howard lost track of them. One afternoon as he reached for his pipe he found some letters he had forgotten to open. He tore them open without interest at first, but an itemized bill puzzled him, and he unfolded the inclosed check with considerable interest. It was made out to cash for $45, and it was signed Sylvia Farnsworth. Sylvia Farnsworth, his Sylvia—what could it mean? It announced that Miss Sylvia Farnsworth was debtor to "a kind neighbor" for the following items: 20 bushels potatoes at 80 cents, 4 bushels tomatoes at $1, and so on.

But what had Sylvia to do with all this? Without waiting to wonder any longer he went back to the road that led to his neighbor's farm. As he came near to the house he heard the shouts of children. There were hundreds of them, it seemed, all sorts of sunburned, healthy-looking little boys and girls.

"Is Miss Farnsworth here?" he asked one of them.

"Yes, she's in the house. Just go on up," advised the small informant.

Then Sylvia came in, not the Sylvia he had known, the languid society girl he had accused of being useless in the heat of the quarrel. This one was brisk and alert and with an air of one who enjoys responsibility. "So Mr. Kind Neighbor has called at last!"

"I thought you were in Bermuda!"

"The others went on—well, I decided that to bring these kiddies away where epidemics couldn't reach them would be more useful." She half closed her eyes and looked at him, the color flooding her face.

Howard looked very guilty. "Dear girl, can you forgive me? I've been punished enough by remorse."

She hesitated only an instant. "Yes, dear, I've got the habit of being useful and I think you need reforming."

"A SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 10 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me and after my baby came, I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better, in fact, cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic."

Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, sleeplessness, tired-out feeling, are all signs of womanly trouble. Other women get relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? All druggists. NC-132

Gold Money of World.

The gold money of all countries of the world for which statistics were available in 1896 aggregated $4,144,000,000, while on January 1, 1916, it was $8,258,000,000. Silver money of the same countries in 1896 amounted to $4,237,000,000 and in 1916, $2,441,000,000. Of the gold money recorded in 1896 the three largest holders were France, Germany and the United States, while at present they are the United States, France and Russia. During this twenty-year period of the United States shows an increase in gold holdings of 231.7 per cent, Russia 118.6 per cent, and France 70.3 per cent. In December, 1916, gold in the United States was $2,741,000,000 as compared with $372,000,000 in 1896. Of the $18,500,000,000 gold produced in the world since the discovery of America, $3,830,000,000 was produced in the United States, while of the $13,600,000,000 of silver produced in the same time $1,800,000,000 was produced in the United States. During 1916 alone we imported over $600,000,000 in gold.

Kitten Puts Out Fire.

John is only a black and white kitten of nondescript breed, but if there is such a thing as a medal for bravery, he certainly has claim upon it. One morning I was sitting before the fireplace, watching John as he lay on a hassock on the opposite side, apparently asleep, but he was far from it. We were burning some old trash in the fireplace, and suddenly, with a report like that of a pistol shot, a cinder about as large as a dime came flying through the air and alighted in a basket used by John as a sleeping place. This basket was lined with a woolen cloth and the cinder began to smolder and an incipient fire was at once under way. John, giving the call of the cat tribe, pounced on the blinding cloth, trampled it out with his fore feet, and then, when he was satisfied it was extinguished, quietly curled up and went to sleep, just as though he had not done a thing that was a wonderful exhibition of feline sense.—Our Dumb Animals.

Went Right to the Point.

Allen was two and a half years old when he was invited to his first party. When his mother told him he was invited to a party he asked: "Mother, what is a party?" His mother answered: "At a party you go over to the house of your little friend with the other children who are asked, play games, and have a nice time, get something to eat and come home." The only part of the definition of a party that made an impression on Allen's little mind was the "something to eat." When the appointed day for the party came he marched up to the house of his playmate, knocked at the door and, upon being ushered in, said: "I came to your party; I would like something to eat."

Usually Slender.

While there is life there is hope, but it isn't a very strong hope when the doctors hold a consultation. —Atchison Globe.

Old English Physicians.

The England of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries was a rich field for physicians, and their influence was extended in many directions. Some were very serious-minded persons who did much to advance medical science—others were famed for their adroit ways of amassing wealth. If England has produced Doctor Arbuthnot, it has also had such practitioners as Dr. Erasmus Steno, who growled at his aristocratic patients instead of flattering them.

NEW WAR VESSEL UNCANNY

John Hays Hammond, Jr., Operates Coast Defense Boat by Wireless.

The most uncanny vessel afloat in American waters is anchored in the cove at West Gloucester, Mass. The only craft to be seen, it is the new coast-defense boat invented by John Hays Hammond, Jr. You feel that it is uncanny when you look at it afloat in the little harbor and realize that without a soul on board it can nevertheless be directed in any direction, and when it is in line with an enemy ship it can fire a broadside as effectively as a big man-of-war with a full crew and complement of trained gunners.

The wireless is the explanation. From the coast Mr. Hammond can start the motor on the boat, set the steering gear as he likes, and then train the guns on any desired target. It is just another of the marvels which modern warfare has brought into being.

As to its practicability, the inventor is modest but positive.

"It's all right for coast-defense work," he says, "and it is comparatively so simple that one a week can be turned out by a shipbuilder without difficulty. In the event of a big order, the parts could be standardized and made in wholesale lots, so that the output could be greatly increased."

Of course Mr. Hammond is not telling the details of this new invention, but the "ready for service" and from the "ready for service" the inventor can look out from the little harbor and keep an eye on his new craft, which may play part in the world war if the United States becomes involved in it.

FEEDS 100 "TRAMPS" A DAY

They Are Feathered Hoboes, However, and Demand Only Light "Snacks."

Judge Orlady of the superior court has undertaken the task of feeding several hundred hungry pigeons each day outside the window of his offices on the fifth floor of the city hall. The pigeons have learned to distinguish it from the other windows. When Judge Orlady arrives at his office the pigeons already are there to wish him a "good morning" and beg for their breakfast.

In the corner of his office the judge has a large box, which he keeps filled with cracked grain. He scatters the grain on the window ledge, and replenishes the supply frequently, as hundreds of the birds come and go.

Sometimes the birds return during the day for another "snack." If the judge isn't looking, they peck on the window pane to attract his attention.—Philadelphia North American.

The Spirit of Scotland.

I went into Cupar (writes a correspondent) to make a business call in a small office, and in the course of conversation asked the Scotsman I was talking to, a perfect stranger to me, if she had anyone "at the front." The answer of this noble and heroic woman (who was evidently unaware that she was giving expression to the spirit of Scotland springing up eternally through the centuries) was:

"Three sons have I given to the wars. Two have been killed, one at Loos and one later. The third is safe as yet, though he is in France. Sorely I grieved when I heard, but I do not grudge them. If I had ten sons I would give them all gladly for the defense of the country. I think shame of the women who hide away their men folk."

How About It?

Patience—There, now, I've spilled some salt.

Patience—What of it?

"It's a snore sign of a quarrel."

"It's nothing of the kind."

"Yes, it is, too. I never saw any one spill salt that a quarrel didn't follow."

"That's nonsense."

"It's not nonsense."

"Yes, it is, and you're silly."

"It's you that's silly."

"You make me tired."

"And you make me sick."

"The idea!"

"Yes, the idea."

"Pooh!"

"Pooh, you."

Slow curtain.

Made a Hit With Her.

"I suppose you women could improve on congress."

"Perhaps in some things. But there's one thing about congress that appeals to me."

"What is that?"

"The way things are contracted for whether there is any money in the treasury or not."—Kansas City Journal.

Painful Reminder.

"Mrs. Grabcohn carries a high head considering the fact that before Mr. Grabcohn got rich she used to slave at a wash tub."

"Maybe that's why she carries her head high."

"Yes!"

"She may be afraid that sometime while motoring about her eyes will alight on a tub."

Denied.

"That Duhwalto baby gets everything he wants."

"Not quite everything. Yesterday on a trolley car he wanted an old gentleman's whiskers, but the old gentleman refused to part with them."

WHERE PEACE IS ENDURING

For More Than a Century Uncle Sam and Canada Have Been Good Friends.

Before me lies a letter from Montreal, and the most interesting thing about it is the cancellation stamp of the Canadian government. "Girard" writes in the Philadelphia Ledger.

Upon the wide field of the British flag is printed in bold type this reminder: "Help to win the war. Buy war savings certificates."

Canada is helping to win the war not only with her dollars but with her men. Half a million have already enlisted, and that is like Pennsylvania sending an equally large army to the front, the population of Canada being not quite so large as that of our state.

Curiously enough, most Americans know much less about the government of Canada than of England, France, Russia or Germany.

We forget that July 1 is Canada's Fourth of July, and that the dominion came into being just fifty years ago.

We forget that instead of thirteen colonies, as we had, Canada had but four provinces.

We have had states and territories, but Canada has provinces and districts. There are now nine of the former and five of the latter.

Ours is a republic, but Canada is a dominion.

When Benedict Arnold's little army of about eleven hundred men, which had marched, starved and frozen, through the wilderness of Maine, attacked Quebec at the outbreak of the Revolution, Canada's population was less than that of West Philadelphia.

For 102 years the United States and Canada have not had a gun, soldier, warship or fort to guard the 4,000-mile boundary line which divides them.

Proving that when a lamb and a lion lie down together the sheep does not invariably repose inside of the king of beasts.

WOUND STOPS SHELL SHOCK

Only the Unwounded Suffer From Its Effects, According to London Doctor.

A shell explodes in the vicinity of a soldier. He is unharmed, but violently shaken, perhaps knocked over or buried. He loses his senses for a varying period and his nervous system, having suffered a violent shaking, is no longer what it was. He starts at the least sound, he cannot sleep, he has pains in the head and his hands are slightly tremulous; all, except the last, symptoms that depend on the word of the patient and not on the observation of the doctor. Now, there is one remarkable fact to be noted about all these cases, according to a physician's letter in a London paper. These men are unwounded. No case of "shell shock" is ever found to occur in a soldier who has a wound, no matter how trivial. It seems as if the rending of the flesh by a bullet or a fragment of shrapnel acts as a sort of safety valve, localizing in the injury the destructive force that otherwise is spent on the nervous system.

Searchlights for Firemen.

The up-to-date Cincinnati fireman is going to be an illuminating person, casting light into all the dark places. The fire department has invested in a number of high-powered searchlights, made to be strapped to the firemen's backs. The device is intended for use in night work and in places where the smoke is dense. It takes a husky fireman to bear one of the new searchlights, and still do much fire fighting, for the machine weighs 30 pounds in all; but it throws a 3,000 candle power beam, and will burn for five hours steadily. The battery is carried on the back, and the headlight shoots forward over the fireman's helmet.

Sable Fish.

The United States bureau of fisheries is trying to popularize the sable fish, which is found in large numbers off the coasts of the Northwestern states and Alaska. It has been almost entirely neglected as a food, although of high quality.

The sable fish is also called the black cod. Last fall fishermen caught the sable fish in large quantities. Most of the catches went into cold storage.

In order to bring this fish to the attention of dealers, thereby causing a more general consumption, the fisheries bureau has prepared some printed matter on the subject.

No Chance for Humorist.

Twenty-three thousand seven hundred and sixty-one persons tried to tell what love is, when a New Orleans paper held a prize answer contest on that subject recently. And then the prize went to this one: "Love is the doorway through which the human soul passes from selfishness into service and from solitude into kinship with all humanity." Southerners are just that sentimental that the person who wrote "Love is what makes two unborn hairs grow where there was only one red one," probably got stung.—Springfield Republican.

Origin of the Locomotive Whistle.

On a level crossing between Bagworth and Thorton in England, on May 4, 1833, there occurred an accident which gave us the locomotive whistle. Stephenson's locomotive "Samson" crashed into a cart containing 50 pounds of butter and 80 dozen eggs, says the Popular Science Monthly. Following the accident a meeting of the directors was called, at which Stephenson suggested that a whistle blown by steam be used to give warning of an approaching train.

FINEST POLICE IN WORLD

New York Police Captain Is Enthusiastic Over the Havana Force.

A New York police captain, after a recent visit to Cuba, describes the Havana police force as one of the finest in the world, second, in his estimation, only to that of New York. The Havana policemen wear a light blue uniform and a helmet similar to that of the French army officer. The mounted and traffic policemen wear spiked helmets. A cape is thrown over the shoulder and revolvers are carried in a holster attached to the outside of the jacket. In size the men do not compare favorably with the police of New York or other great American cities. They are large for natives, but, in comparison with the American standard, of medium, or below medium, height. What they lack in size, according to the New York policeman, they make up in politeness. If a Havana "cop" does not understand your question he will find an interpreter. He will even go so far as to walk several blocks with a stranger to a street car in order to get him started aright to his destination. There is a policeman on every corner and his job, due to the narrowness of the streets and the volume of automobile traffic, is heavier than that of the average American metropolitan policeman. Police captains live with their families in the police station. Little drunkenness is evident in the city.

BRIDE HIS PUPIL LONG AGO

Professor of Philosophy in Ohio Weds Heroine of School Days' Romance.

"That's the best dollar I ever spent," laughed round-faced, jovial Frederick Trendley, sixty-five years old, professor of philosophy at Ohio university, when he paid for a license to marry Mrs. Ella A. Davis, fifty-seven years old, of Columbus. The marriage is the result of an acquaintance of long ago, when Professor Trendley was a teacher at Bluff Point, Ind., and his bride was one of his pupils. A renewal of that acquaintance recently ripened into the engagement and the subsequent marriage. The bridegroom had been married once before and his bride twice.

Professor Trendley is one of the "grand old men" of the Ohio university faculty and is beloved of several generations of students.—Columbus Dispatch.

The Cost of High Living.

About nine-tenths of the cause for the b. c. of I. is accounted for by the editor of the Nevada (Ark.) Picayune. Listen to this obscure paper tell the story in a single paragraph:

"We throw away ashes and buy soap. We raise dogs and buy bogs. We grow weeds and buy vegetables. We catch fish with a $4 rod. We build schoolhouses and send our children away from home to be educated. And we send our boys out with a $40 gun and a $19 dog to hunt 10-cent game."

Is there any exaggeration in this country editor's snappy sentences? We have failed to discover it.

Movies in the Home.

Have you a little moving picture theater in your home? That question is likely to become common, simplifying the moving picture machine for home use. In this new machine the hissing carbon pencils, with their frequent need of adjustment, which are a part of the type of machine used by lecturers, are done away with. Their place is taken by an ordinary electric bulb, of a size varying from 100 to 500 watts. The machine is built in one piece, so that it can be easily carried about, and has a patent shutter which the manufacturers claim will do away with all flickering.

For a Postage Stamp, $370.

The highest price lately paid for a postage stamp was $370, a sum given at a New York auction the other day for a five-cent Hawaiian missionary stamp of the issue of 1831. When the early missionaries went from New England to Hawaii they looked ahead to many things, but hardly to the sale of their postage stamps at prices higher than their salaries for a year.—Youth's Companion.

Important.

"I got an inside tip on the market today."

"You did? Let me in on it, will you?"

"You won't let it go any further?"

"I won't breathe it to a soul."

"Well, my butcher told me that the price of beef is going to be advanced ten cents a pound within the next six months."

Easily Changed.

"Is your portable garage satisfactory?"

"Oh, yes," replied the suburban dweller, "it suits me very well and I'm glad for my wife's sake that I bought the portable kind."

"Why so?"

"She's had it moved half a dozen times because she didn't think it looked well from the street."

The Lady's Alibi.

"She claims she has a perfect alibi."

"Indeed! What is her alibi?"

"She assures me that she can prove that at the time the crime was committed her little daughter was brushing her hair."

"That proves an alibi for her hair, but how about herself?"

POTATOES TO FRONT FORTS

France to Make Good Use of Land Skirting the Fortifications of Paris.

A band of territory about 150 yards wide and 18 miles long skirting the fortifications of Paris and now uncultivated will probably be planted to potatoes next spring. The mayors of the 20 arrondissements, or wards, of Paris have arranged to meet and settle the details.

This land still belongs to the nation, but the city of Paris will eventually come into possession of it when the fortifications are demolished, in pursuance of an arrangement with the government. It will be transformed into parks, boulevards, public playgrounds and sites for public institutions. In the meantime the cultivation of it will in no wise interfere with the plans for the future.

If the coming season is at all favorable to the crop, France will have a record yield of potatoes. The movement for the planting of all uncultivated land to either potatoes or Jerusalem artichokes has been general and official. A government commission is getting ready to furnish seed and fertilizers to all who want to help swell the crop.

HEALS WOUNDS WITH SUGAR

New Ideas in Treatment Evolved From Experience in War Hospitals in Europe.

The astonishing number of recoveries, running up to 80 and even 90 per cent of the wounded, is due to improvement in the methods of treatment which have been developed in handling these all too abundant cases. There will not be so large a proportion of one-armed and one-legged men as there were among our Civil war veterans. Dr. Alexis Carrel of France has shown how to prepare a cheap and very effective antiseptic from sodium hypochlorite and boric acid. From the other side comes the report of an even simpler treatment. Dr. Erich Meyer, in the military supplement of the Munchener Medizinische Wochenschrift, reports that he has got good results by dressing the wounds with ordinary granulated sugar after washing them out. The wounds are simply covered with a compress and the sugar renewed every second or third day. Whatever may prove to be the value of this treatment, it is at least worth knowing in case of surgeon's within call.—New York Independent.

Naval Recruits.

A century or so ago the ranks of seafaring men were recruited almost wholly from the seaport towns, by the operation of natural laws, which led men to seek the occupations with which they were most familiar; but this has been changed, and now, especially in the navy, the interior is furnishing the men. One of the reasons is that city life does not qualify men for the stern duties required of them on the ocean, as is shown by the report of the United States marine corps for nine months of the year 1916, in which there were 5,082 applications for enlistment from the New York district and only 167, or about one in thirty, were accepted. The principal cause of rejection was defective vision, but bad teeth ran this a close second. There were numerous cases of heart affection, aggravated, in all probability, by the conditions of life in the metropolis, and nearly 10 per cent of the entire number examined were classed under the general head of "poor physique and underweight."—Portland Oregonian.

Thousand Kisses an Hour.

Think of being kissed 1,000 times an hour, six hours at a stretch. Better still, think of these 6,000 kisses in six hours, with time after each for a little soft, sweet love note, and, perhaps, if you are sentimentally and affectionately inclined, you may be able to picture the performance which happened in Langhorne, Pa. It has set the tongues flying.

To make matters worse, the two lovers who indulged in this pleasant pastime had an audience. They were watched by none other than a dignified professor, and, far from minding the intrusion, as if proud of their accomplishments, the two sweethearts cooed and sang to each other and kissed, kissed and kissed.

The sweethearts are parrots, and proud of it. They are not the everyday, plain variety, but are of brilliant and gorgeous plumage and hail from Australia.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Take Gold Coins for Nickels.

There were two cases within two days of the dropping of a $5 gold piece into the receiving box of a pay-as-you-enter car, and the street railway company is wondering whether prosperity has gained such headway that gold pieces are liberally mingled with silver in the change purses of the people. The first of the $5 pieces has not been claimed, though the incident was advertised. In the second case the act was observed and the conductor exchanged the gold for a nickel with the woman who made the mistake.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Much the Same.

Sackville McKnutto says his children come home and mimic their teachers, burlesquing each little mannerism in great detail, making it clear to him that children are very much like their teachers. He adds that, judging from the imitations he sees, the teachers are also very much like they used to be.

DIABOLICAL METHODS

Is Resorted To By German Agents In Norway.

Christiana, May 31.—An amazing collection of bombs, poisons, bacilli of deadly diseases and other means of death and destruction have been seized by the authorities here as part of the baggage of Baron von Rosen, a Swedish nobleman and alleged to be a German agent. The Baron fled to Norway after his activities had aroused the Swedish authorities. He was arrested but, as he could not be convicted of the violation of any Norway law, he was released with a warning to leave the country.

Baron von Rosen's field of operations was along the Swedish-Finnish border. His purpose is supposed to have been the destruction of Russian food and munition warehouses, but what success he had is not known. When he fled from Sweden last January part of his baggage was seized by the Swedish authorities and found to contain a large quantity of high explosives, packed in tin cans marked "corned beef." It remained, however, for the Norwegian police to uncover the real extent of his equipment.

After the Baron had been ordered out of Norway those portions of his baggage which had not been seized arrived in Christiana and were turned over to the police. Among the articles found were cans of explosives marked "table salt," bottles marked "mouth wash," containing cultures of dangerous bacilli, identified by the State health laboratory; boxes of lump sugar, each lump concealing a small vial filled with bacilli of anthrax or glanders, and a number of explosive Pencils.

The latter article is an ingenious, infernal machine and a new departure in frightfulness as far as the authorities here are aware. It has the appearance of an ordinary pencil, but if sharpened a drop of acid concealed in a thick glass tube is released and, acting on other concealed chemicals, causes an explosion sufficient to maim or perhaps kill the sharpener.

One scheme of Baron von Rosen in which the poisoned sugar lumps were to figure is believed to have been directed against the great traffic stream which the war has called into being between the Norwegian town of Narvik and Finland. A tremendous tide of merchandise flows into Russia along this road by horse transports. Between 2,000 and 3,000 horses are used for freighting goods and barns have been constructed along the road for their accommodation. The plan attributed to Baron von Rosen was to put the poisoned sugar in the feed boxes in these barns and start an epidemic among the horses which would cripple the whole transportation system.

The revelations in regard to what the Baron described as his "scientific expedition" have aroused great indignation here and the authorities are severely blamed for releasing the Baron. There have been some cases of infectious diseases among horses at places where Baron von Rosen stayed, but his connection therewith has never been proven.

Prayers Registration Day.

The First Baptist church will be open during registration hours next Tuesday and the public is invited to use the church building as a place of prayer. There will be no formality in the service. Members of other churches are especially invited to enter and remain, as long as they may desire, in silent prayer.

Vacancies Not Filled.

Vacancies in the officers' training camps, resulting from the withdrawal of candidates for commissions or any other cause, will not be filled, the War Department announced. It is regarded as too great a handicap on the whole force to have men enter now and attempt to catch up.

FOUR WEEKS IN HOSPITAL

No Relief—Mrs. Brown Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"For years I suffered so sometimes it seemed as though I could not stand it any longer. It was all in my lower organs. At times I could hardly walk, for if I stepped on a little stone I would almost faint. One day I did faint and my husband was sent for and the doctor came. I was taken to the hospital and stayed four weeks but when I came home I would faint just the same and had the same pains."

A friend who is a nurse asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it that very day for I was suffering a great deal. It has already done me more good than the hospital. To anyone who is suffering as I was my advice is to stop in the first drug-store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before you go home."—Mrs. W. C. Brown, 2844 W. 12th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Civil Service Examination

The U. S. Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for assistant in warehouse investigations, for men only, on June 6, 1917, at Hopkinsville. Salary ranging from $1,500 to $2,100 a year.

Women Missionaries.

Twenty-two women, five wives of Baptists ministers, were graduated from the Baptist Woman's Missionary Union Training School, Louisville, at exercises Tuesday night at the Broadway Baptist church. Four or five will leave soon to do missionary work in foreign fields and the others will work in the home fields for the present.

BOY HANGING FROM CLIFF

Battle Between Giant Buzzard And a Fifteen-Year-old Boy.

Santa Rosa, Cal., May 31.—A battle between a giant buzzard and a 15-year-old boy clinging to the root of a shrub 20 feet up a straight ledge of rock was won by the boy, who is now recovering from an experience that rivals Poe's fictional terrors.

The boy is Hans Meirbach, and he hung above a pile of jagged rocks for a long time. He was walking on the brink of a precipice when his foot slipped and he fell over. Twenty feet below he caught a root and hung on. With his handkerchief he tied his left wrist to the root and then wrote a note to a boy friend, bidding him farewell and saying no one was responsible for his predicament.

Just as he finished writing a huge buzzard flew down upon him and started to peck at his head and body. The hungry bird inflicted deep wounds in the boy's flesh. Young Meirbach fought the buzzard with his free hand. He had been tormented to frenzy and was about exhausted when the bird gave up the fight.

At nightfall a searching party found the boy and rescued him. He had nearly lost consciousness from his experience and loss of blood.

Dull Week.

The losses of British shipping from the submarine war as reported this week total 21 as compared with a total of 30 lost in the previous week. While the losses of vessels exceeding 1,600 tons each remains the same as in the previous report, the number of vessels of less than 1,600 tons is reduced from nine to only one. The number of fishing vessels sunk is reduced from three to two.

First Food Bill.

The first food bill, providing for the survey and carrying more than $14,000,000, was passed by the House without a record vote. It is said a fairly accurate estimate of the country's resources will be available three weeks after the President signs the bill. A similar measure is now pending in the Senate and action is expected to pass in a day or two.

Permitted Rallies.

The rallies which is consistent with good breeding is a gentle admonition on some foible, which, while it raises the laugh in the rest of the company, doth not put the person rallied out of countenance, or expose him to shame or contempt. On the contrary, the jest should be so delicate that the object of it should be capable of joining in the mirth it occasions.—Fielding.

Great Musicians Loved Silence.

Among musicians taciturnity has always been prevalent, both Beethoven and Mozart being renowned among their friends for their long periods of silent thought and their dislike to the "chatter" of general conversation. Even Chopin, whose music would lead one to suppose him fond of people, was said to "love silence even better than music," while Wagner, except when discussing musical matters, was silent even to the point of actual rudeness.

Both Friend and Foe of Farmer.

Crows do the farmer about as much harm as good, according to the biological survey of the department of agriculture which has completed a monograph on the relation of crows to man. The essential conclusions are that crows are about equally beneficial and injurious, and that they are so wary and sagacious as not to need special protection. Lack of this, while not endangering the species, will permit farmers to protect their crops or other property whenever necessary.

PLEASURE IN THE LIBRARY

Making Alphabetical List of Volumes on One's Shelves Gives Joy to the Book-Lover.

Have you ever made an alphabetical list of the books in your library?

Why not do it? Either by title or author, but better by both.

A blankbook will answer, but cards are better for the purpose.

It is a great joy to watch the number grow and the only practical way to know just what you have on your own shelves.

Thoreau called books "the treasured wealth of the world," and it were well for us to know at least how much of this treasure we possess.—Exchange.

WARSHIPS.

Gunboats, among the smallest of the warships, are classed with coast-defense vessels. They are of slight draft and are used largely as auxiliaries. Armored cruisers, which are being supplanted by battle cruisers, are larger than gunboats, are seagoing and are built for speed, for which heavy armor and big guns are sacrificed. Battleships carry big guns and heavy armor. Battle cruisers combine the speed of the armored cruiser with the big guns of the battleship and have medium heavy armor. They usually are larger than battleships, among which, however, is a distinct class of warship, the largest of all—the dreadnaught, the first of which was the British dreadnaught, laid down in 1905. This ship set the style for all subsequent big battleships.—Philadelphia Ledger.

SUCH A CHANGE.

Old Neighbor—Going to New Zealand with your husband are you, my dear? That's one of those countries where they have day when we have night and night when we have day.

Mrs. Youngbride—Yes; I suppose I shall find it awfully strange at first.

SUFFICIENT UNTO THE DAY.

Mrs. Rivers—I am very much pleased with my new cook.

Mrs. Bridges—How long have you had her?

Mrs. Rivers—Her day will be up tonight.—Judge.

HIS INSTRUMENT.

"Does that new writer use a pseudonym in his work?"

"No, he don't; he uses a typewriter."

SUITABLE.

"Did the singer succeed in getting an apartment to suit her?"

"Oh, yes. She got a suite thing in A flat."

MIND AND MATTER.

Professor—What is mind?

Student—No matter.

Professor—What is matter?

Student—Never mind.

ITS CLASS.

"The wealthy soap manufacturer on our block has bought himself a fine automobile."

"I see; a regular soap 'bubble.'"

The Chief End of Brains.

A member of congress, a new man and therefore not widely known in Washington, found himself one day in the hands of a barber of the proverbial talkative sort who was employed in a Washington hostelry, says the Youth's Companion.

"You have a large head, sir," observed the barber, as he was trimming the locks of the statesman. "It is a good thing to have a large head, for a large head means a large brain, and a large brain is the most useful thing a man can have, for it nourishes the roots of the hair."

Delineating the Giraffe.

Gibbon's note on the giraffe shows what a mystery the beast was to our eighteenth century ancestors. Describing the inglorious achievements of the Emperor Commodus in the amphitheater, he mentions that "Commodus killed a camelopardalis, or giraffe, the tallest, the most gentle and the most useless of the large quadrupeds;" and adds: "This singular animal, a native of the interior parts of Africa, has not been seen in Europe since the revival of letters, and though M. de Buffon has endeavored to describe, he has not ventured to delineate the giraffe."

No Escape.

"Do you believe man was made to mourn?"

"I do," answered the pessimist. "Even when a person has little to complain of himself, he is often made unhappy by the hard luck stories other people insist on telling him."

ARE MANY USELESS MOTIONS

Shaving, for instance, is field in which Services of Efficiency Experts Are Greatly Needed.

One of the most fantastic persons in the world is the public official who before he can write a postal order or a tax receipt has to make preliminary curls of penmanship in the air. Observed by the scientific eye, we are much more fantastic ourselves.

If our effective motion could be registered on a visual target our record would be found to resemble that of savages who use ammunition without a sight on their guns. If we think that the ordinary soldier's marksmanship is wasteful, we may well look to ourselves. Our life is peppered with motions that fly wide and wild. It begins on awaking. We stretch our arms—waste motion! We ought to utilize that gesture for polishing our shoes. We rub our eyes—more foolishness. We should rub our eyes on Sunday for the rest of the week.

But it is in processes like shaving that scientific management is really needed. Men flatter themselves that they shave with the minimum of gesture. They believe that they complete the operation under five minutes. But excusing their inaccuracy, do they know that under the inspection of the scientific manager their performance would look as jagged as their razor blade under the microscope? The day will probably arrive when a superman will shave with one superb motion as delightful to the soul as the uncoiling of an orange-skin in one long unbroken peel.—New Republic.

Being Respectable.

To be respectable implies a multitude of little observances, from the strict keeping of Sunday down to the careful tying of a cravat.—Victor

A Motor Shovel.

In unloading ore or coal from the sides of vessels on the Great Lakes there is always a certain amount of material in corners and between hatches that cannot be reached by the floating buckets. The dock superintendent at Buffalo has designed a motor-driven scraper shovel that moves such material much faster than it can be moved by hand. The machine carries a shovel that can be raised and lowered automatically, but whenever possible the ore or coal is pushed underneath the hatch openings, where the unloading buckets haul it out of the ship. The power-scraper shovel is said to do the work of from 12 to 10 shovellers, according to the type of boat; and to save from one to five hours' time in the unloading process.

THE "KHAKI WOMAN."

The "khaki woman" was something of a shock to the British public at first, but her training and discipline have been justified. When the Zeppelins first attacked London the woman's ambulance was the first on the scene to remove the dead and the injured. The corps rendered sterling service at the time of the recent East end explosion, and even now, every Sunday, they take the children who are suffering from shock into the country in the hope of restoring their shattered nerves.

She Likes to Furnish the Words.

"Does your wife like to hear you use slangy words?" "Does she? Why, she doesn't seem to like to hear me use any kinds of words at all!"

Gorilla Closely Resembles Man.

The gorilla is man's nearest relative on the earth today. He is so much like a man that in all likelihood, according to Doctor Gregory, he would in the course of ages develop into a very human sort of creature, if his species were permitted to survive. Unfortunately, he will not enjoy the opportunity, because his race is being rapidly exterminated.

Coney Mentioned in the Bible.

There are several allusions in the Bible to the coney. The thirtieth chapter, twenty-sixth verse of Proverbs says "the coneys are but a feeble folk, yet they make their house in the rocks." Coneys are yet found on the Lebanon and in the Jordan and Dead Sea valleys. The coney is about the size of the domestic cat, has long hair, a short tail, round ears and chews the cud.

Dieting.

Dieting is the pastime of those who are physically unfit for more active recreations. It may be enjoyed indoors or out, and though it is not so vigorous as football nor so exciting as hunting wild game, yet it has many thrills. Perhaps its most tense moments are at mealtime when one reaches a high pitch of excitement at sight of some thin soup and two hard crackers. One becomes in fact so excited that one is obliged to hold tight to the chair. It is particularly exciting to realize that one is likely to fly into a frenzy at any moment and eat everything in sight. The scales are almost indispensable to dieting, although, for that matter, they are almost indispensable to a fish. However, to be anything at all, a diet must have a pair of scales. It will amuse you to see that every time you are about to step on the scales you think perhaps you have lost a little weight.—Detroit Journal.

The Real Book Lover.

Here is the definition of a book lover given by the librarian of Brown university: "The book lover is distinguished from the reader as such by loving his books, and from the collector as such by reading them. He prizes not only the soul of the book, but also its body which he would make a house beautiful, meet for the dwelling of the spirit given by its author. Love is not too strong a word to apply to his regard, which demands, in the language of Dorothy Wordsworth, 'a beautiful book, a book to caress—peculiar, distinctive, individual.'"

Did You Ever Use This One?

"Oh, no, ma; but some of the other boys were smoking, and I guess it got in my clothes."

Waste No Food

Food Waste of About 700 Million Dollars.

"For partial immediate relief, every individual and community should consider earnestly the matter of food conservation and the limitation of waste. As a Nation we seem to have a disdain of economizing. In many homes there is a strong feeling that it is 'only decent' to provide more than will be eaten and that it is demeaning to reckon closely. The experts of the Department of Agriculture report to me that the dietary studies made by them point to an annual food waste of about $700,000,000. Of course, the waste in families of very limited means is slight, but in the families of moderate and ample means the waste is considerable. Even if the estimate were reduced by half, the waste would still be enormous.

"The food waste in the household, the experts assert, results in large measure from bad preparation and bad cooking, from improper care and handling, and, in well-to-do families, from serving an undue number of courses and an over-abundant supply and failing to save and utilize the food not consumed. As an instance of improper handling, it is discovered that in the preparation of potatoes 20 per cent of the edible portion in many cases is discarded."—SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE, March 3, 1917.

Food s Wasted

(a) When we eat more food than our bodies need for growth and repair and to supply energy for our work. Overeating tends to poor health and fat instead of brawn, makes us sluggish and indolent instead of energetic and resourceful. Eat enough and no more. Eat for physical and mental efficiency.

(b) When food is burned or spoiled in cooking. Improperly prepared or poorly seasoned food will be left on the table and probably wasted. Buy food wisely and then prepare it carefully.

(c) When too much food is prepared for a meal. Unserved portions are apt to be thrown into the garbage pail or allowed to spoil. Many housekeepers do not know how to use left-over foods to make appetizing dishes.

(d) When too much food is served at a meal. Uneaten portions are left on the plate and later thrown into the garbage pail. Learn to know the needs of your family, and serve each no more than you think he will want.

(e) When anything edible is allowed to go to the garbage pail or allowed to spoil for lack of proper handling.

(f) When food is handled carelessly. Buy clean food, keep it clean until used, be neat in all details of cooking and serving. This lessens waste and is a valuable health measure as well.

Feed Your Own Family First

Don't feed high-priced human food to hogs or chickens.

Don't send valuable food to the incinerator or the fertilizer heap.

Don't pour into the sewer nourishing food in the shape of milk, skim milk, sweet or sour soup, gravy, or melted fat, or water in which cereals or vegetables have been cooked.

Keep good food out of your garbage pail and kitchen sink.

REGISTRATION FACTS.

For the benefit of citizens between the ages of 21 and 31 years who are eligible to register June 5 for military service, the following suggestions and explanations of the law have been prepared:

Every man between the ages of 21 and 31 years of age must register, it matters not whether he is married, single, sick, well, black, white or yellow.

If you have dependents you are required to register just the same, and if you are due to be exempted, the government will take care of that.

Any person who has reached his 21st birthday on or by June 5th must register. Any person who has not yet reached his 31st birthday by June 5th is also required to register.

Every person must register in the ward or precinct in which he resides.

All men between the specified army draft ages must register whether they think themselves qualified for exemption or not. In registering, the following citizens can claim exemption from military service:

- Executive, legislative or judicial officers of States or nation.
- Members of religious bodies whose creeds forbid participation in war.
- Members of the United States mail service.
- Workmen in armories, arsenals or navy yards of the United States.
- Felons or otherwise morally deficient.
- Men physically disabled (obvious defects only, such as loss of arm, leg, eye, etc).
